

WHO WE ARE

INTENTIONALLY SMALL

We're the little guy, and we like it that way because we know that big ideas start in small classes. We're small by design, so we can keep the focus on our students. Professors and students are friends on Facebook. Students text professors questions about assignments. The biggest lecture hall on campus? It could fit in a big school's "small" lecture hall.

ENGAGING EDUCATORS

About that small-class thing: Our full-time faculty members are in those small classes, asking questions and pushing students to think in new ways. Add to that fieldwork, internships and study abroad, where students experience real-world concepts in real time, and you'll see why our students love it here. Just talk to one of our professors for a few minutes; you'll be ready to sign up for a class, too.

CRITICAL THINKERS

The world needs bold thinkers to challenge and lead, and many students will need graduate degrees to get there. We see that, and that's why we emphasize critical thinking and analytical reasoning. They are the skills that prepare students for graduate school and professional careers. Students learn more than facts – they learn to think for themselves.

MOVERS AND SHAKERS

How do you spot a Wesleyan grad? Look in Congress, the state legislature, or behind the bench in a courtroom. Spot executives and managers in all types of businesses large and small, or look in a local classroom and watch a teacher inspire a child. Across many fields, our graduates are problem solvers who relish new challenges and love to step up to the plate. And why not? They practiced it here.

TOP-TIER VALUE

We believe in helping our students afford a great education — because you shouldn't need a degree to earn one. And we're getting national recognition for it. U.S. News & World Report ranked us among top national universities for social mobility — proving our big scholarships are helping students afford the education they deserve. In fact, 100% of new full-time undergraduate students received scholarships and/or grants last year. Now that's Smaller. Smarter.

A TEXAS-SIZED REPUTATION

As the longest-serving higher education institution in Fort Worth, we're a small school with a big legacy. Our students win regional, national and even international contests, our expert professors publish their own work and perform breakthrough research and our athletics shine with over 70 national titles in everything from table tennis to basketball. So what are you waiting for? Come be a big deal on our small campus.
